

SkyWest Airlines' 13th Annual Mini Indy Gives a "Turbo Boost" to Local Charities

SkyWest Airlines and the City of St. George once again "put the pedal to the metal" in the 13th annual Mini Indy. On Friday, March 22, 35 teams from around the world came to SkyWest's hometown of St. George, Utah to battle it out "go-cart style" – with all proceeds benefiting United Way Dixie and the SkyWest Scholarship Fund.

"Without the generosity of our sponsors involved in Mini Indy, we would not be able to fund the agencies that provide important human services to our neighbors in need," continued Rebekah Pectol, administrator, United Way Dixie.

This year's Mini Indy lived up to the excitement that the race is known for. And after enduring a series of heats with fierce turns, obstacles and speeds up to 23.5 miles per hour, Wencor Group was named the Grand Champions for the second year in a row.
